Suffolk County Legislature Presiding Officer William J. Lindsay visited with students at Sachem East High School on Wednesday, October 27. PO Lindsay discussed both the issues and services that the County provides to residents of Long Island.

With the presence of many state and congressional election candidates at Sachem East in recent weeks, Presiding Officer Lindsay's attendance was a breath of fresh air in educating students about the relationship he has with local government organizations and his constituents.

"As a county legislator, you have a direct impact on the lives of 80,000 plus people, and you can enrich their everyday lives. Many of these people need to become more aware of the opportunities and services that are available to them," said Presiding Officer Lindsay. "I look forward to maintaining my relationship with the Sachem School District and speaking to some of Long Island's best and brightest in the years to come."
